

TÜV Rheinland approves as Verifying Body for Social & Labor Convergence Program (SLCP)

TÜV Rheinland Hong Kong has been approved as a Verifying Body (VB) for Social & Labor Convergence Program (SLCP) to provide verification service. SLCP, an initiative led by the world's leading manufacturers, brands, retailers, industry groups, (inter)governmental organizations, service providers and civil society organizations, has secured more than 180 signatories in 2018. The mission of the SLCP is to develop a common assessment framework and data collection system, dramatically increasing industry efficiency and reducing audit-related costs.

The framework, which is designed to replace proprietary solutions, includes a standard-agnostic tool and verification methodology to collect relevant and essential data on critical issues including child labor, forced labor, occupational health & safety, and wages. The verified assessments are sent to the Distribution Gateway. With facility permission, the verified assessments are shared with end users (brands).

TÜV Rheinland has supported clients of all sizes and sectors across the globe. The social compliance assessment is a process. It consists of reviewing all documentation and official records related to a corporate social responsibility program and its implementation. Our multi-disciplinary team of experts at TÜV Rheinland can show you how social compliance and impact assessments can boost the reputation of your company.
